Rachel Steele. 841 In the month of July I was asked to do a portrait of a little girl and boy. I used to take my lunch to school to eat but not anymore. I had to take a picture with them, so I went to the cafeteria to eat. I didn't have a change of clothes so I just took off my shirt and brought my lunch. I opened my lunch and got a sandwich. The boy opened his lunch, got a frog, and ate it. I guess he was hungry. While I was eating my sandwich, I heard someone say, "Rachel, you're here!" I looked up and saw a woman with a large black dog named Nick. She said, "I came to meet you." We got talking and then I realized that the dog had bitten me. "I'm sorry," I said. "But it's not really your fault," she said. "He's a good boy." Then I heard someone else say, "Rachel, I'm ready for you now!" "Ok, he better go!" she said. "He's my lover and he loves me to pieces." She smiled and I thought about what she said. I heard the boy say, "You're lucky." I looked up and saw her walk over to the boy. They started kissing and I just stared. I was amazed that they were kissing. When they stopped, she said to him, "Would you like to join us?" he said, "Sure." As they got dressed, I took my coat off and put it on the table.
