BROUGHT TO YOU BY PSNIDAMONDERQ: What's the best way to include a JQuery library in a site which does not use JQuery? I'm making a Ajax/JSON javascript tool for a financial blog. Since I'm using a lot of javascript in the document it's necessary to include a JQuery library. I wrote this tool in ASP.net MVC, so I'm forced to use a jquery file that comes with the framework. I tried to include the file in the directory with the javascript I made, but i still get The resource could not be resolved. So I don't know how I can load this library. A: You could try and refer to the jquery script from the file where you've got the code: Also check the other scripts in the file to be sure they've got the right references (almost all the time they do, but beware) Are you one of the world's 5.9 billion Internet users? You're in luck. Big Internet companies are increasingly in demand around the globe. Microsoft, the U.S. conglomerate that owns Skype, purchased a 40 percent stake in O2, a mobile phone provider in the United Kingdom, for $11.2 billion late last year. Facebook and Yahoo! are still buying other companies, like mobile messaging service WhatsApp, for billions of dollars. And there are a billion mobile phone apps in use today, thanks to the multibillion-dollar smartphone industry. But that's just half the picture. Mobile Internet access is booming in markets such as China, Brazil and India. But it is also growing in countries where Internet access is more limited. India, for instance, spent over $12 billion between 2011 and 2016 to expand its mobile network. And it has nearly 200 million Internet subscribers. But in early 2016, Internet penetration stood at about 40 percent, even though there are more than 1 billion Internet users in India. Things are no better in Nigeria, which has more than 180 million Internet subscribers. But only about 6 million of them are paying Internet subscribers, thanks to a chronic Internet access problem that has plagued the nation for years. bff6bb2d33

At the hearing in the House Judiciary Committee on Wednesday, Judiciary Chairman Jerry Nadler (D-NY) asked Comey if his memos contained classified information. Comey declined to answer, saying that he believed some details of the memos were still “classified.” Comey’s characterization led to a firestorm on Thursday, as Democrats accused Comey of keeping classified information back in 2017 because of a fear that President Trump would declassify it. While Democrats have long accused Comey of leaking classified information to the media, the declassification accusation was the first time they charged Comey with mishandling classified information as well. In a letter sent Thursday to Attorney General William Barr, however, Comey said he worried that Trump would use the information to harm American security. “I cannot credibly have an opinion about that,” Comey said of whether the information should be made public. “That is an area of law that falls between a train wreck and a nuclear explosion.” Comey’s comments might further infuriate some congressional Democrats, who have long viewed him as a traitor. As FBI director, Comey forwarded a memo from his personal laptop to his government-issued phone, for example, in order to transfer it to a government server. The FBI has since ruled that the document is classified. Comey said in his testimony that he didn’t know if anyone other than he had seen the memo. When asked if he would tell the entire story if he were called to testify, Comey said, “I think all I can say is what I said to [Sen.] Richard Burr [R-NC] last year: I believe I’ve got more important things to do than trying to figure out who I am and where I am.”Q: Pushing an Image to the Background of Video.js I'm trying to do the following - I want to insert an image that is embedded in the video.js player ( Please take a look at the following fiddle: This works - it inserts the image and if I resize the viewport the image stays in place
