That does not mean that we will not be able to get the Mi A1, it's just that we will not get the phone officially. Google Play will follow the same trend and the company will launch the Play Store version for the Huawei Honor 8. The app is already available for download, but it won't be official. You will need to manually install the application via Play Store. The process might be a little difficult for some users, especially with older versions of Android, but it is pretty simple. The Honor 8 runs on the Android 7.0 Nougat out-of-the-box. So, if you have a stock smartphone, you should be able to get it done. While installing the app, you should be careful and confirm that you are installing a copy of the app. Do not select the option "Install" if you see an option to download the app from Google Play.Hierarchical free-energy surfaces for detection of collective variables in molecular dynamics.
