Nice review but after upgrading to LR5.2 RC I think performance is better than with LR4. Working on a project with 1500 D800 NEFs my impression is that the smart previews increase speed while working in the Developer mode - in Lib. mode however everything slows because the JPEG previews are used. So far I am not sure how the Jpegs are used as previews when you have the smart previews (DNGs) available. But have to say that I am happy with 5.2 RC although I will say bye-bye to LR the day they make it part of CC. Regards! Sren After reading your review I am quickly doing some research. I just purchased Photoshop CC 2019 (upgrade from CS6) from MacOwner. I have no intention of selling Photoshop. I am just curious as to what the difference is between Photoshop (on MacBook Pro) and Photoshop Elements (on Macbook). Since you said it is of no use to me, I just wanted to know if the price is worth it. If so, what should I expect from the upgrade to read CC? Looking forward to the post. Hi Bill, I appreciate the helpful comment. You're right about the difference between Creative Cloud and Photoshop Elements. The individual Elements software is a great platform for those of us who use the camera to create content. It's great for portraits, landscapes, and people. (I've used PS Elements since they started offering bundled software, back in the day before everyone knew what Photoshop was. I've had a couple of Macs since then, including a 13-inch MacBook Pro.) Got a question about my review? Send me an email.
