Fashion insiders, street styleers and pop culture figures from a range of industries gathered to see the results, ranging from the ultra-glamorous to the more wearable. A blizzard of bright colours, shimmering fabrics and the geometric designs we've come to expect from the Parisian fashion house filled the atelier, representing the new movement into the autumn/winter collections. Here are the top looks of the week. Brigitte Bardot Girl THE LOOK: A fabulous example of an A-line flare, Bardot Girl is a street style icon that has reached all-time highs in the current market. The Bardot Girl trend has garnered a slew of accessories, including sunglasses and more bright and colourful overalls, aiming to up the summery appeal of the silhouettes. THE PRODUCTS: To create this flattering, flattering summer piece, Bardot Girl's silhouette is instantly recognisable in a palette of wonderful greens, yellows and bright pinks and purples. The added statement piece is a white-and-yellow-striped scarf that's been perfectly matched to the Bardot Girl to give the aesthetic of the top a distinct edge.WASHINGTON -- The NHL's Players' Association could take legal action against the league if it believes there is substantive changes to its collective bargaining agreement that have not been previously disclosed, union head Donald Fehr said Saturday. Fehr was asked about the legal challenges to the CBA on the annual Players' Association meeting in Calgary, Alberta, and said that each scenario
