Psychosocial consequences of traumatic and/or severe illness are a major challenge in geriatric inpatients and early discharge planning and post-discharge care of elderly hospitalized patients is crucial. The study objective was to delineate trajectories of psychosocial recovery in elderly patients hospitalized for a severe injury and/or illness. A consecutive sample of 83 inpatients aged >75 years with traumatic and/or severe illnesses (i.e., hip fracture/surgery, pneumonia, stroke) were recruited from the geriatric division of a tertiary care centre. The Acute Recovery Scale - Insight (ARS-I) was administered to assess (i) global levels of recovery and insight during hospitalization, (ii) levels of psychological distress, depression and anxiety at admission (T0) and discharge (T1), and (iii) actual functioning at home (T0), admission (T1) and discharge (T2).
